GOAL

Metadata are important to help people find the images they're looking for in vast online repositories, by offering information that describes the content. If you'd have to describe these images to someone else, which keywords would you use? Keep this question at the back of your mind while viewing these images: it will help you add tags reflecting what you see or know about each picture (places, people, objects, concepts, historical events...), which in turn will help people to discover them in Europeana. You're also contributing by upvoting or downvoting tags added by others.
