

The background of the entire slide is a photograph of a library or study area. Several people are visible, mostly young adults, sitting at long wooden tables. They are engaged in various activities: some are looking at books, others are writing, and one person in the background is standing and looking at a book. The room is filled with tall wooden bookshelves that reach up to the ceiling, packed with books. The lighting is warm and soft, creating a quiet, studious atmosphere. The entire image has a semi-transparent yellowish-brown overlay.

Citizen Heritage

Development and testing of participatory approaches

Francesca Manfredini
EFHA

Objectives of O3

- to set up, organize and monitor a series of participatory activities and CS workshops (8 in total) that will involve researchers and professionals from the HEIs and CHIs in the consortium and their related networks, students and citizens
- to produce and test innovative approaches for CS in the cultural heritage field, especially those supported by digital technologies that have a great potential for more active engagement of local communities in heritage and culture
- final objective would be to produce a final sets of guidelines and best practices for the effective replicability of the applied approaches.

Development and testing of participatory approaches

- HE and CH project partners are organising and running a defined series of Citizen Science workshops
- Each event is hosted and organised in collaboration between at least one HE and one CH partners
- This aims to test different kinds of participatory approaches in citizen science projects applied to cultural heritage

HISTORY IN PICTURES

FROM BULGARIA

26-27/04/2021

In this event, students of digital humanities from the University of Sofia worked on metadata improvement, by annotating and enriching the beautiful digitized collection of early Bulgarian photography published by NALIS Foundation in Europeana.

Result of the action is over 5.000 new metadata added to nearly 700 heritage photographs.

ICT AT THE SERVICE OF CITIZEN SCIENCE

May 2021

This was an online challenge for under- and postgraduate computer science students at the National Technical University of Athens, with the aim of implementing added-value features to improve crowdsourcing platforms, such as e.g. gamification elements, interlinking with automatic outputs extracted via a machine learning algorithm, etc.

COLLECTION DAY FOR FAMILY PHOTOGRAPHS IN PISA

28/06/2022

On the occasion of the first CitizenHeritage Multiplier Event held in Pisa, a digitization and collection desk was organized, inviting participants to share heritage photos from their family albums, which were digitized on the spot by a professional photographer, and then aggregated by Photoconsortium and published in Europeana, the European digital library. An evaluation survey was submitted to the participants to understand their thoughts about sharing personal heritage in the context of an open science approach.

TEST INCLUSION OF CULTURAL WORKSHOP IN CURRICULA/ Rotterdam

In collaboration with Culture Meets Digital, Erasmus Rotterdam University presents the multiplayer event Citizen Heritage to explore how culture and creative coding practices can support sustainable models in higher education and the development of participatory approaches through the intersections of culture and science. The event includes workshops sessions and a conference.

REDRAWING THE MAP/ Leuven

This event is about Leuven and its student community. We will invite students, academics and local experts to reconstruct the (hi)stories of Leuven's recent past by means of images in cooperation with collaborators of the City Archive. This event will especially test expert and non-expert collaborations.

Many thanks for your attention!
